(ii) Fill in the voting opinion

1. For non-cumulative voting proposals, fill in the voting opinion: agree, oppose or abstain.
2. For cumulative voting proposals, fill in the number of votes cast for a particular candidate. Shareholders of listed companies should vote within the limit of the number of election votes they own for each proposal group. If a shareholder casts more votes than they own, or if they cast more votes than the number of candidates in a preferential election, all their votes for that proposal group will be considered invalid. If a shareholder disagrees with a candidate, they can cast 0 votes for that candidate.

A list of the number of votes cast for candidates under cumulative voting

The number of votes cast for a candidate	Fill in the form
Vote for candidate A X1 times	X1 times
Vote for candidate A X2 times	X2 times
...	...
TOTAL	Not exceeding the number of votes owned by the shareholder

Examples of the number of votes owned by shareholders under each proposal group are as follows:

- ① Election of Non-Independent Directors (as proposed in Proposal 12 of Table 1, using equal voting rights, the number of candidates to be elected is 7) The number of election votes owned by shareholders = the total number of voting shares represented by the shareholder \times 7. Shareholders may allocate their election votes among the 7 candidates for non-independent directors, but the total number of votes cast must not exceed the number of election votes they own.
- ② Election of Independent Directors (as proposed in Table 1, Proposal 13, using equal voting rights, the number of candidates to be elected is 4) The number of votes owned by shareholders = the total number of voting shares represented by the shareholder \times 4. Shareholders may allocate their votes among the four independent director candidates at will, but the total number of votes cast must not exceed the number of votes they own.
- ③ If a shareholder votes on the general proposal, it shall be deemed to have expressed the same opinion on all proposals.

When shareholders vote on both the general proposal and specific proposals, the first valid vote shall prevail. If a shareholder votes on specific proposals before voting on the general proposal, the voting opinions of the specific proposals that have been voted on shall prevail, and for other proposals not yet voted on, the voting opinion of the general proposal shall prevail; if a shareholder votes on the general proposal before voting on specific proposals, the voting opinion of the general proposal shall prevail.
